

Funnyman Kevin James, better known for his role as Doug in the hit TV series King Of Queens, returns to the big screen in what is being billed as a talking animal rom-com. Well, there are definitely talking animals but you'd be hard pressed to find much romance or even comedy in this lacklustre offering that really should have gone straight to DVD. Formulaic, dull and lacking in surprises - even young kids will struggle to find the funny side. Ok, there may be worse movies than Zookeeper but off the top of our heads we just can't seem to think of any.
