

The people who brought you Paranormal Activity and the first of the Saw franchise are back with a new twist on the haunted house story. After a young family moves into an old house, the son falls into an inexplicable coma and it soon transpires that they are dealing with supernatural forces. Borrowing heavily from Poltergeist, this is still a rollicking good fright fest.

