Dylan (Justin Timberlake) and Jamie (Mila Kunis) are friends who decide to try adding a little benefit to their relationship. They soon find out that benefits sometimes come with unexpected consequences. Poking fun at your own genre can sometimes be a dangerous game – Friends With Benefits just about manages to pull it off resulting in a not too bad rom-com that largely relies on how much you like the leads. Although it's worth a look for Woody Harrelson alone.
